

There once was a friend group that called themselves The Gamers. They had a HUGE sign above their headquarters that said THE GAMERS: KEEP OUT! The Gamers were made out of three people: Bob, Travis, and Charles. One day they were playing "Super Cube Man" and Travis noticed a little portal. So he walked up to it and put his finger in. Suddenly, the portal got bigger and bigger and bigger until they got sucked into the game! Charles went "AHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!" After 3 hours, they landed. Bob said "Where are we?" "I don't know," said Charles. "Well, why don't we walk around?" said Travis. "Good idea." agreed Bob and Charles. All of a sudden, they realized they were on the start screen! They pressed the start button and got teleported to the "insert name" screen and they inserted their names. Then the game said "Would you like a tutorial?" and they argued for a while. Then, they agreed that they didn't need one.

The game said "Welcome to level 1." Then, a bunch of squares spawned and they turned into cubes! Travis screamed "WHY ARE WE CUBES?" Bob screamed "I DON'T KNOW!" Charles asked them to just get on with the level and they both agreed. So they completed levels 1-4. These levels were hard but they knew the hardest was yet to come...level 5.

Finally, they got to level 5: the final level. They fought the normal enemies and got to the final boss. The final boss was a HUGE monster that was 500'10". He was purple and he had huge horns on his head. He had glowing swirls all over his body and a diamond on his back that controlled his energy. They all worked together to destroy the diamond on his back. They combined their special abilities and finished him off. They all screamed "HOORAY!" Bob found a portal gun and went out of the game. Once they were out of the game, the three of them talked all about it for two weeks. They had lots of fun but vowed to keep it a secret.

The end.