

Ryan "Roller Coaster" Bubbles

One day Ryan Bubbles was going to an amusement park. He had never gone on any roller coaster before. He was very excited to try something new. When he was waiting to go into the amusement park it was so big it felt like two years (or 2 minutes 😊). When he went in, he saw a huge roller coaster and a big gulp went down his throat. When he finally got on the roller coaster, he took a deep breath and then took off. He was having a blast and he felt like he was on top of the world. His hat almost fell off, but he quickly grabbed it. He went up a giant hill and then went swooshing down at 60 miles an hour. Ryan also went through a tunnel, and it had so many colorful designs on the walls. When he came out of the tunnel there were so many twists and turns. When he finally got off, he thought it was the best thing he had ever experienced.

10 years later...

Ryan Bubbles was working to build the biggest roller coaster in the world. It was going to be Scooby-Doo themed. It had all the twists and turns, ups and downs, and even flipped upside down. Ryan Bubbles was finally ready to go on it. Ryan thought that it was the best thing ever with all the colors. He decided to make it go 80 miles an hour. Kids were going to love this ride. Many years later, Ryan had a chain of 45 Scooby-Doo amusement parks across the world with a variety of rides. Kids of any height or age could go on all rides. After that Ryan lived a happy life and even had two dogs named Scooby and Doo.
