

When I draw pictures of what I do wrong sometimes I show them to my parents and to my family. to my father's family.

It can be a way for of telling the truth because a long time ago sometimes I would tell lies, but now I learned that honesty is the best policy. That is what I learned and sometimes when I am nervous, I like to write pictures and show it to my parents, just like I said the first time.